

M'GRATH ANXIOUS TO IMPROVE LINE

Says Main Would Be Two-Tracked Now If Hike Had Gone Over

IS FIXING UP BRAKES

Many Cars Being Equipped With Re-built Airbrakes in Place of Hand Power

"If our hearing before the state corporation commission had been held on October 5, the original date, we would now have Main street entirely double-tracked, with the exception of the three blocks from Eighth to Twelfth streets, and would be giving five-minute service over this line instead of the present seven and one-half-minute service," Morris McGrath, superintendent of the Tulsa Street Railway company, declared Friday.

Meant to Make Improvement. "We had planned this improvement for some time, and expected to start it as soon as we obtained an increase in fare. However, it was not allowed in October, the work would have been completed by this time. We have also considered double-tracking North Pearl avenue and putting in a double-track turn-off from the Kendall line. However, Pearl avenue is too narrow at present to permit a double track. We have offered to widen the street at our expense, but property owners wanted a bonus in addition to this. Mr. O'Meara, one of our attorneys, in an address delivered before the Rotary club several months ago, said the Main street project was under serious consideration.

Improving the Brakes. "We are also equipping our hand-brake cars with air brakes. While I do not consider this so essential, it seems that public sentiment favors it and we are trying as far as our limited finances will permit to give the people what they want. Our experience has been that there are three times as many accidents with cars equipped with air brakes as there are with those that have hand brakes. It is possibly because the motorman puts too much reliance in the air brakes."

McGrath held a short conversation with City Attorney Frank E. Duncan Friday regarding the request of the corporation commission that a member of the street railway company and a representative from the city hold a meeting to decide upon the specific improvements that will be asked when the hearing is held in Tulsa December 17.

"While we will be glad to have your cooperation," Duncan explained, "at the same time I don't see where a representative of the company can be of special benefit. The improvements are to be asked by the city and its citizens."

A detailed list of the changes to be asked will probably be prepared by the city attorney Monday or Tuesday.

Damages of $10,000 Awarded Widow for Her Husband's Death

Judgment for $10,000 in favor of Edna Saxon and her four minor children, was awarded in district court No. 3 Friday against the Oil State Gasoline company, for the death of Charles Saxon at a gasoline loading dock near Higgins, October 4, 1920.

The case was tried before Judge A. C. Brewster, and it was admitted by counsel for the gasoline company that Saxon was working on the dock loading cars with gasoline when for some unexplained reason the gasoline became ignited and burned Saxon to death. The judgment in favor of the widow and children was in the nature of an agreement, the gasoline company leaving to the court the amount of damages the woman should receive.

THREE DAYS PASS SANS HI-JACKING

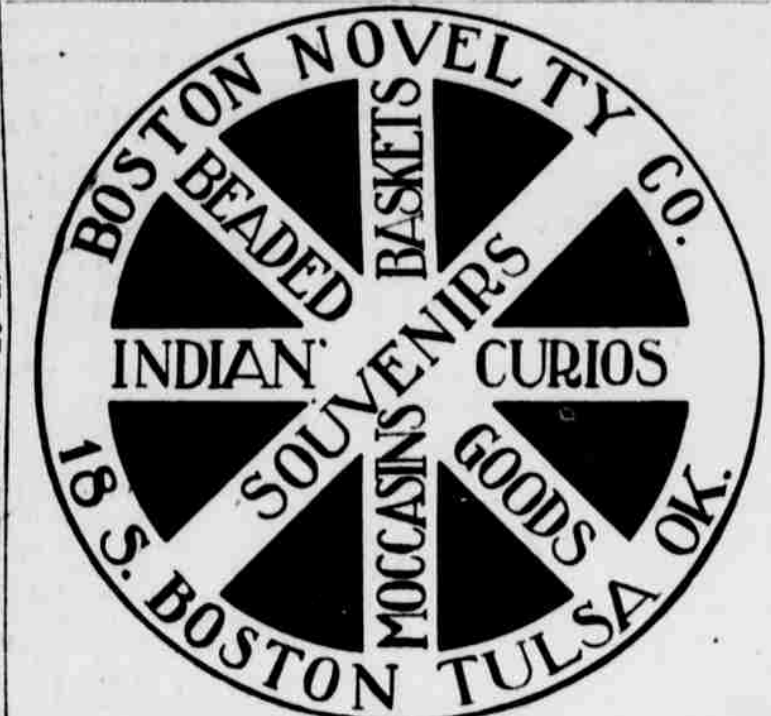

Tulsa Has No Burglaries or Robberies for Three Days, Books Show

Tulsa county last night had a case of hi-jacking when two men stuck up W. S. York, 111 South Phoenix and his wife, about 11 o'clock, west of the country club. About $23, a watch and a pocket-book were stolen from York while his wife lost about $7 and a house key. York reported to the police that shortly after he had stopped his car, the two stickups approached and at the point of a gun searched the car and its occupants. The scene of the stickup was a mile west and a half mile south of the city limits, the police say.

But the city of Tulsa has for three consecutive nights been free of either a stickup or a burglary. The fact that we have not had a single case of hi-jacking or of house-prowlers testifies that the increased efforts of the police department have at last begun to take effect. Such a record is almost unprecedented in the police history for this time of the year. John A. Gustafson, chief of police, said last night: "About three weeks ago, it was at first thought that Tulsa was in for what has befallen every other city in the country of Tulsa's size—a crime wave. Crime increased in Tulsa—it was natural for this season of the year, police officials say—but Tulsa has had less crime today than practically any other city of its size, authorities say."

"We now have the department completely organized and the organization is becoming more efficient every day," Chief Gustafson said, "and it is my opinion that any other outbreaks of crime will be nipped in the bud. For the last two weeks we have been slowly overcoming the law breaker until now his acts have been reduced to a minimum."

Logan, formerly of Kansas City, but now a lease broker operating between Tulsa and Fort Worth, purchased a new K-6 standard Curtiss airplane from the Curtiss Southwestern Airplane company this week. He is "breaking in" the new machine with a trip to Florida, where he now is and where he will spend a few days.

CLAIM WELL IS POLLUTED

Hotel Owners Ask $2,500 Damages From Town of Skiatook

Damages of $2,500 were asked in a suit filed in district court Friday by Mary Turknett and J. W. Turknett against the town of Skiatook for damage to a water well on their property in Skiatook.

The plaintiffs, owners of six lots in block 11, alleged they were owners of a pure water well which was the source of a water supply for their hotel. The standpipe maintained by the city, according to the petition, was allowed to overflow onto the land of the plaintiffs and by flooding the well, ruined the water in the well for drinking purposes and in addition caused their hotel building to rot from frequent "baths" of water blown from the top of the standpipe.

There is not as much worry over baking costs either. Because Calumet costs less—when you buy it—the price is moderate.

—the Kind Mother Uses!

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

It costs you less when you use it—because you don't use as much of it—it has more than the ordinary leavening strength.

You get more out of the flour,
